Supporting families of children with motor learning difficulties

Active learning through play, addressing all areas of development, and incorporating the principles and practice of Conductive Education.

School for Parents provides a specialist service for families of young children with cerebral palsy and other motor learning difficulties.

We support families with babies and children under 5 years of age.

Weekly sessions involve children in active sitting, standing, stepping, fine motor skills, communication, social skills, cognitive development and self-help skills. All areas of development are addressed and children are motivated to learn through the use of fun activities, games, songs and stories.

The Ethos of School for Parents is active learning through play. The children learn alongside their parents through the Early Years curriculum incorporated within the holistic practice of Conductive Education. Our highly skilled team empower parents to understand and appreciate their child's abilities and achievements and to have positive expectations. A therapy team is also available on-site in an advisory capacity.

'School for Parents has been life-changing for our family. It was such a relief to find experienced, specialist staff who understood and shared our high expectations for our son. Even on the hardest of days, the team always highlighted the positives and managed to put a smile on our faces.'
